Dear Diary.

For eleven progressive years I, the Church College of New Zealand, centered in Temple View, Waikato, serving the students of the South Pacific, have been growing in buildings and students - students, whose future will be determined by their every day activities within my grounds and buildings.

REPRESENTS THE CULMINATION OF THE SCHOOL YEAR

Enthusiastic Reception For Maoris

The authentic Maori culture in ceremony, action songs, hakas and poi, allied to the spirited youthfulness and skill of the performers, won for "The Coming of the Maori" a tremendously enthusiastic reception from a three-quarters full house in the Civic Theatre last night.

Performed by 49 girls and 28 boys from the Church College of New Zealand, conducted by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, at Hamilton, the show represents the work of the Maori Culture Group.

In this group, careful training in the arts of the Maori distinguishes between preserved tradition and modern accretions. The result is an entertainment which is both valuable and enjoyable.

An impressive stage setting, effective lighting and costumes of true Maori style make the show spectacular. The brilliantly co-ordinated movements of boys and girls as scene follows scene in a non-stop succession of a cumulative exhilaration.

The applause at the final curtain as the whole cast sang "Po-Ata-Rau" was of an intensity seldom to be heard nowadays.

Rewarding

Spontaneity and a sense of enjoyment in everything done with rhythmic precision give the impression that the husky, athletic-looking boys and the comely, supple girls find presenting "The Coming of the Maori" a rewarding experience.

First, on the ancient marae, the sentinels' call on the sea-shell conch was heard, and then the scene came alive for the ceremonial challenge and welcome in which the Mayor, Mr N. L. Watson, was received with the traditional honours.

Next, the voyage of the legendary seven canoes, from Hawaii to New Zealand, was superbly enacted.

Scenes of work, love and war, with Hinemoa and Tutaneke as central figures, were presented with flowing dramatic effect in chant and action.

"Pokarekare," "Hine e Hine" and "Aue" had particular appeal.

A short choir programme, with the singers in the blue and grey college uniform, showed the capability of the boys and girls in modern idiom with distinctive harmony.

Poi Exhibitions

Outstandingly attractive were the girls' graceful exhibitions of double, triple and four long poi. When these were done on a darkened stage with luminous paint showing up a pattern of flowing light, there was long applause.

Action songs, developed from the ancient waiata, introduced more fascinatingly varied poi.

Stick games, the ancient ti rakau, played by the maidens with supple skill while they sang changing tunes, were carried through with noised ease, and again the device of darkness and luminosity scored.

In the final scene, the boys' terrific haka, the girls' graceful movements, the richly sung tribute to the Waikato and the emotional "Now is the Hour" built up to a certain climax, which was in itself an evidence of skilful production.

Proceeds of the performance were for the Intellectually Handicapped and Crippled Children societies.

"The Coming of the Maori" is to be staged in Queenstown. It will fill houses.

—W.W.B.

Many outstanding items given at Maori concert

Traditional action songs, hakas, poi dances and stick games were outstanding features of the "Coming of the Maori," presented last night at the Civic Theatre last night.

Maori Culture Group

Zealand Church

The action-packed evening of Maori music and dance, a presentation of the Maori Culture Group, was a spontaneous performance which had been well arranged, and there will be a performance in His Majesty's Theatre tonight.

Maori Singers Polished Team

Coming of the Maori is the story of the Maori people in the last century.

CHRISTCHURCH

Coming of Maori Finely Presented

There is little danger of Maori culture dying while such groups as the Church College of New Zealand are preserving and presenting it. The vitality and polish evident in last night's performance of the "Coming of the Maori."

For the first time, students were credited with single subject passes in School Certificate Examination. 185 students sat, receiving 305 single subject passes.

S.C. and U.E. EXAMS are over...Buildings are empty...

Dear Diary,

After spending a quiet restful summer, with my empty buildings made ready through cleaning and painting and my lawns and grounds manicured, I welcomed the return of the students. My buildings were opened, registration commenced and soon the noises of learning filled my rooms.

As a new year commenced I wondered what changes would take place in those who call me their home — changes reflecting another year of progress.

Dear Diary,
Now that school has really started swinging, things have livened up. Activities have really been exciting, sports have started rolling, and classroom work has been a challenge to all.

The balls planned by the Pep Club and Student Body Officers should be exciting. I also hear that Intramurals are starting with an Athletics Day.

The next few months should really be something to look forward to.

Dear Diary,
On June 13th I recieved the following notification:

"I have pleasure in advising you that at its recent meeting the Entrance Board adopted the recommendation of the Liaison Officer for your University district that your school be added to the list of schools approved for accrediting purposes."

This is a major milestone in my progress.

Special commendation for this accomplishment should be given to my outstanding teachers and students who have worked diligently to achieve a standard enabling me to receive this recognition.

Dear Diary,
 A few months have arrived with many more activities in the areas of sports, intramurals, dances and films, that will help to end this very exciting year. As it comes to an end, I see that great things have been achieved by both students and faculty,
 that have made this a truly memor-
